K.R. Margetson Ltd

K.R. Margetson Ltd is a professional accounting corporation, focusing on management accounting for closely held companies in British Columbia.

The company handles business and tax planning, start-ups, corporate and personal tax preparation, tax disputes and appeals, business valuations and similar assignments.

The company also provides auditing services in the public and institutional sectors. Keith Margetson, chartered accountant, has been in public accounting for over three decades.

Accountants are consulted more than any other professional for business advise.

The portfolio of services accountants provide continues to expand and extends beyond traditional areas of tax preparation and auditing.

Key growth areas include niche practices, technology consulting and financial planning.

At K.R. Margetson Ltd we serve two comprehensive groups of clients. Business and private (individual) clients.

We are tailored to provide services to any size of enterprise, including start-ups and family run businesses, small to large organizations and divisions of multi-national corporations. We also provide a number of specialist services to law firms, pension schemes and charities.

Our private clients may be families or perhaps company directors but share something in common. A desire to minimize their tax burden and improve their personal financial affairs.

At K.R. Margetson Ltd we believe your accountant should do a lot more than just report on how your business is doing. Your accountant should help you identify opportunities to improve your bottom line and support you in trying to realize them.

Every client is unique and deserves a unique service. Our philosophy is to put our clients first, to understand their situation and provide a first class service tailored to their specific needs.

We establish a one-to-one relationship with each client and we are able to offer timely, individual advice on how to improve your business or personal finances.

Whether you need help with growing your business or advice on optimizing your personal or family finances, we are here to help you get the best results.

If you are looking for an innovative firm who can help improve the performance and profitability of your business. Then K.R. Margetson Ltd is the firm for you.
